Well – maybe it is me and somebody else for the time being.

I agree with Tom.

I do, though, think we ought to make someone available for such a discussion, particularly if it could yield potentially valuable information about the mine pool. Given that we can anticipate some litigation over this, would suggest that we are either in a listening mode or that an attorney (could be a regional counsel attorney) consider participating.

Hi, Matt, good talking to you. Todd Hennis, owner of the Gold King Mine, would love to talk with the Administrator while she's here today. If not in person, a phone call would be great.

Besides discussing his relationship with EPA through the years, I believe he would like to discuss creating a viable long term solution to the Sunnyide Mine Pool problem that doesn't endanger the innocent, adjoining landowners or the people of San Juan County. He is concerned about a potential larger problem with this mine pool.

Do you think we could make a short discussion possible? I think it makes sense on a lot of levels.

Thanks,

Wendy
